Choices: Exploring Spelling, p. 328

Choices activities are designed to extend and enrich students' understanding of grammar, usage, and mechanics and to take learners beyond traditional classroom instruction. To use the Choices worksheet, have each student pick an activity that interests him or her. In some cases, you may wish to assign an activity to a particular student or group of students. You may also want to request that students get your approval for the activities they choose. Establish guidelines for what constitutes successful completion of an activity. Then, help students plan how they will share their work with the rest of the class.

Choices activities can be scored with a pass-fail grade or treated as bonus-point projects. Those activities that require students to research or create a certain number of items might be graded in a traditional manner.

EXERCISE B

A cutter is a type of horse-drawn [11] sl ei gh. In the 1800s in America, the cutter was an [12] effic ie nt means of travel across [13] f ie lds and roads in snowy weather. The cutter is [14] lightw ei ght and open in design, usually seating two people. Some cutters feature a second, removable seat for two additional [15] fr ie nds or family members.

Once travel by automobile was [16] ach ie ved, cutters gradually became less common. Today some people [17] bel ie ve cutters to be a fun alternative to the automobile. Some owners use [18] th ei r cutters to give old-fashioned cutter rides. They [19] rec ei ve additional income by selling tickets for rides in the cutter. You can probably imagine a cutter with bells jingling on the horse's [20] r ei ns during winter festivities.

I shore did have fun yesterday. My two best friends had a surprise party fur me. I still cain't believe they pulled it off—specially since some of the people they invited tend to gab all day ever' day.

My maw had ast me to go to the store to git some bread. That was nuthin' unusual. But when I got back and opened the door, that's when ever'one yelled, "Surprise!" You better believe I was surprised. My friends had brought me presents. And my maw had baked a purty cake that tasted good, too. It was one of the best birthdays I'd ever had.

Some readers may find it difficult to understand some of the words, especially if they are not familiar with the dialect. Probably, though, they can figure out a problem word by looking at the other words around it.

The reader will get a true sense of how the narrator talks, and this will help the reader get a sense of the narrator's background.

2. Answers will vary. A sample answer is given.

The use of nonstandard spelling conventions would not be appropriate in any type of formal writing such as a business letter, a letter of application, a class essay, or a newspaper article.

Writing Application: Spelling Handbook, p. 357

Writing Applications are designed to provide students immediate composition practice in using key concepts taught in each chapter of the Language and Sentence Skills Practice booklet. You may wish to evaluate student responses to these assignments as you do any other writing that students produce. To save grading time, however, you may want to use the following scoring rubric.

Scoring Rubric

Two helpful tips are explained.

1 2 3 4 5

For each tip, examples have been provided.

1 2 3 4 5

In tone and word choice, the paragraphs address and encourage an eighth-grade audience.

1 2 3 4 5

The assignment is relatively free of errors in usage and mechanics.
